Hamburg, 27. January 2022: The Supervisory Board of Engel & Völkers Capital AG has appointed Marc Drießen as Chief Executive Officer (CEO). He succeeds Robin Frenzel, who is moving to the Supervisory Board. Drießen will lead the company together with Chief Investment Officer Tomasz Kalemba. Jörg Scheidler left the Executive Board at the end of 2021 to pursue a new challenge.

"With Marc Drießen, we have been able to gain a CEO who has extensive professional expertise in the structuring and distribution of institutional investment products as well as an excellent network in the real estate industry," says Robin Frenzel, future Chairman of the Supervisory Board of Engel & Völkers Capital AG.

In the investment and real estate industry, Marc Drießen has made a name for himself in recent years as an expert in digitalisation, among other things. Most recently, he was CEO of the start-up Bloxxter, which he founded. He sold the company, which specialises in blockchain-based real estate investments, to a German private bank. Previously, he was a managing director at Hansainvest and a board member at Hesse Newman Capital AG, among others. "The excellent team, combined with the strong brand and the associated access to one of the largest real estate networks, are an excellent basis to lead Engel & Völkers Capital AG into the next growth phase," says 47-year-old Marc Drießen.

"With Marc Drießen, we are gaining one of the leading industry experts for the further development of the company. At the same time, Robin Frenzel ensures continuity on the supervisory board as a valuable sparring partner. This puts us in an excellent position for the future," adds Tomasz Kalemba.

Robin Frenzel comments on his move to the Supervisory Board as follows: "In the past years, we have achieved a lot with a highly motivated team. Above all, I am pleased to remain associated with Engel & Völkers Capital AG as a shareholder and member of the Supervisory Board and to support the company on its further path in a new role."
